OBAMA-WEEKLY ADDRESS

VO : 23

President Barack Obama says there's no reason to reward U.S. companies with tax breaks when they're creating jobs overseas. In his weekly radio and Internet address, Obama renews his call for Congress to close tax breaks that reward some U.S. companies with overseas subsidiaries. The proposal has raised concerns among Republican lawmakers and some Democrats. But Obama says the U.S. "should be using our tax dollars to reward companies that create jobs and businesses within our borders." At issue is a bill that stalled in the Senate last month that would end some tax credits and deferrals for U.S. companies for operations overseas.

ELECTIONS AND CONTRIBUTIONS

LOURDES MELUZÁ/ WASHINGTON, DC

PKG 1:49

As Democrats and Republicans over whether foreign money is polluting the midterm elections a simple point is often overlooked: Hundreds of foreign corporations already play an integral and perfectly legal role in American politics through their U.S. subsidiaries. Political action committees connected to foreign-based corporations have donated nearly $60 million to candidates and parties over the past decade, including $12 million since the start of 2009, federal contribution records show. Top donors in this election cycle include PACs tied to British drugmakers GlaxoSmithKline and AstraZeneca, which together account for about $1 million; Belgium's Anheuser-Busch InBev, at nearly $650,000; and Credit Suisse Securities, at over $350,000.

BANK OF AMERICA TO LIFT FORECLOSURE FREEZE IN 23 STATES NEXT WEEK

VO: 20

Bank of America said Monday that it will effectively lift its foreclosure freeze on Oct. 25 when it begins resubmitting foreclosure documents to courts in 23 states. The bank said the new documents will be used in 102,000 foreclosure actions in which judgment is pending in the 23 states.

Foreclosures in the other 27 states, which do not require a court order for a foreclosure, will remain frozen as the company continues its state-by-state review. That should affect another 30,000 foreclosures. Bank of America spokesman Dan Frahm said in a statement that the company's initial assessment showed that in those 27 states, as is the case in the states where the ban has been lifted, "the basis for our foreclosure decisions is accurate." Frahm said the company had reviewed its foreclosure procedures with key stakeholders, including "our largest investors," perhaps alluding to the beating Bank of America's stock has taken in recent days on worries about the foreclosure issue.

DON'T ASK, DON'T TELL

VO: 20

A federal judge says she's inclined to deny a government request to delay her order that immediately stopped the military from enforcing its ban on openly gay service members. U.S. District Judge Virginia Phillips says she would review the arguments from Justice Department lawyers and issue a ruling by the end of the day Monday. The military has promised to abide by Phillips' injunction as long as it remains in place. But government lawyers last week asked her to stay the ruling while it prepares an appeal. Under the 1993 law, the military cannot inquire into service members' sexual orientation and punish them for it as long as they keep it to themselves. President Barack Obama has said he wants the law repealed in Congress.

FACEBOOK PRIVACY FIASCO

VO:25

The latest Facebook privacy fiasco shows that the world's largest online social hub is having a hard time putting this thorny issue behind it even as it continues to attract users and become indispensable to many of them. The Wall Street Journal reported Monday that several popular Facebook applications have been transmitting users' personal identifying information to dozens of advertising and Internet tracking companies. Facebook said it is working to fix the problem, and was quick to point out that the leaks were not intentional, but a consequence of basic Web mechanisms.

BANK OF AMERICA FORECLOSURE
JAIME GARCÍA/ LOS ÁNGELES, CALIFORNIA
PKG

The White House warned banks Tuesday it would hold them accountable for any illegal mortgage practices, keeping pressure on financial firms after two institutions announced the resumption of home foreclosures. GMAC Mortgage joined Bank of America, the largest U.S. mortgage servicer, which announced on Monday a partial rollback of its foreclosure moratorium. The banks' moves, coupled with financial executives' efforts to play down the severity of the crisis and show they were fixing any problems, followed weeks of damaging accusations of shoddy paperwork that may have forced some people illegally out of their homes.

OBAMA HISPANIC EDUCATION INITIATIVE
LUIS MEGID/ SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA
PKG 1:52

President Barack Obama wants his administration to focus harder on improving Hispanic educational achievement. At the White House on Tuesday, Obama is signing an executive order intended to do just that. Obama says improving education will help the U.S. compete in a growing global economy. The order is supposed to help communities share best practices, strengthen public-private partnerships and ensure that federal programs meet the needs of Latino youths and adults. The order also establishes a government-wide working group and a separate presidential advisory commission. The signing comes two weeks before crucial midterm elections in which Obama is counting on Hispanics to vote Democratic on Nov. 2.

PENTAGON MILITARY GAYS
VO : 20

The military is accepting openly gay recruits for the first time in the nation's history, even as it tries in the courts to slow the movement to abolish its "don't ask, don't tell" policy. At least two service members discharged for being gay began the process to re-enlist after the Pentagon's Tuesday announcement. A federal judge in California who overturned the 17-year policy last week rejected the government's latest effort on Tuesday to halt her order telling the military to stop enforcing the law. Government lawyers will likely appeal. With the recruiting announcement, the barriers built by an institution long resistant and sometimes hostile to gays had come down.

AD "DON'T VOTE" CONTROVERSY
JAIME GARCÍA/ LAS VEGAS, NEVADA
PKG 3:06

"Don't vote this November," says the ad, sponsored by Latinos for Reform. "This is the only way to send them a clear message: you can no longer take us for granted." The ad is running in Las Vegas, where its chief target is Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid, a Democrat who political analysts say will need a huge turnout by Hispanics if he is to turn back Republican challenger Sharron Angle. Robert De posada, a leader of the group, said Hispanics are angry at Republicans', but also blame Democrats, who on the strength of their party's votes pushed through health care and the stimulus package, but refused to address immigration without the GOP.

CHILDREN OF UNDOCUMENTED
VICTOR HUGO RODRIGUEZ/ PHOENIX, ARIZONA
PKG 2:16

Lawmakers in at least 14 states announced Tuesday they are working on legislation to deny U.S. citizenship to the children of illegal immigrants, although they weren't specific about how they plan to do it. Arizona Sen. Russell Pearce said he and the lawmakers have a working draft of their model legislation and have consulted constitutional scholars to change the 14th Amendment and deny automatic citizenship. "This is a battle of epic proportions," Pearce said Tuesday during a news conference at the Arizona Capitol. "We've allowed the hijacking of the 14th Amendment." Pearce declined to say how the legislation will differ from similar measures that have been introduced in each two-year congressional session since 2005. None of them made it out of committee. He and another Arizona lawmaker did argue that wording in the amendment that guarantees citizenship to people born in the U.S. who are "subject to the jurisdiction" of this country does not apply to the children of illegal immigrants because such families don't owe sole VICTOR: CHILDREN CITIZENSHIP Allegiance to the U.S.

FOREIGN BORN POPULATION
LOURDES DEL RÍO/ MIAMI, FLORIDA
PKG 1:56

The U.S. Census Bureau reports that 36.7 million of the nation's population (12 percent) were foreign-born, and another 33 million (11 percent) were native-born with at least one foreign-born parent in 2009, making one in five people either first or second generation U.S. residents. The second generation were more likely than the foreign born to be better educated and have higher earnings and less likely to be in poverty. In 2009, 59 percent of the native-born 25 and older with at least one foreign-born parent had some college education and 33 percent had a bachelor's degree. That compares with 45 percent of the foreign-born who had some college and 29 percent who had a bachelor's degree. (See Graph 1.) "What these data show is that, generally speaking, income and other measures of achievement, such as education, increase between first and second generation," said Elizabeth M. Grieco, chief of the Census Bureau's Foreign-Born Population Branch. "This suggests that the children of immigrants are continuing to assimilate over time as they have in past generations."

LAS VEGAS ELEX LATEST
JAIME GARCIA/ LAS VEGAS NEVADA
PKG 2:07

In a year of close and nasty contests, the Silver State has the closest, nastiest and highest-profile Senate showdown in the country. It epitomizes two of the strongest political trends of the year: the anger against Democratic incumbents - in this case targeting the Senate's most powerful Democrat - and the vulnerabilities of the Tea Party candidates who are riding that wave. This election season is also different from the past in another way: the racial themes that have run through the campaigns have focused on Latino issues rather than the black-white dichotomy that has been the defining racial axis of American politics. "We're hearing more about Hispanics than African-Americans, which may reflect the growing status of Hispanics in the United States," Professor Cherlin said.

BELL MISAPPROPRIATING FUNDS

PKG 2:03

Eight current and former Bell city officials accused of bilking taxpayers out of roughly $5.5 million through hefty salaries, benefits and illicit loans of public money pleaded not guilty today to various felony charges. Former Bell City Manager Robert Rizzo, 56; former Assistant City Manager Angela Spaccia, 52; Mayor Oscar Hernandez, 63; City Council members Teresa Jacobo, 52, and George Mirabal, 60, and former council members Luis Artiga, 49, George Cole, 60, and Victor Bello, 51, entered their pleas during a hearing at the downtown Los Angeles courthouse. All eight made their first court appearance Sept. 22, the day after their arrests. Since then, all but Mirabal and Cole have posted bail and been released from jail. The eight were arrested in connection with charges of misappropriation of public funds. Rizzo also is charged with conflict of interest and falsification of public records by an official custodian. He was charged today with an additional count of conflict of interest and another count of misappropriation of public funds.

DISEASE CONTROL PREVENTION REPORT
LOURDES DEL RIO- MIAMI, FLORIDA
PKG 1:50

As many as 1 in 3 U.S. adults could have diabetes by the year 2050, federal officials announced Friday, in a dramatic revision of earlier projections. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimate that 1 in 10 have diabetes now, but the number could grow to 1 in 5 or even 1 in 3 by mid-century if current trends continue. "This is alarming," said Ann Albright, director of the CDC's Division of Diabetes Translation. The agency's projections have been a work in progress. The last revision put the number at 39 million in 2050. The new estimate takes it to the range of 76 million to 100 million.

HONDA RECALL

VO:20

Honda said Friday nearly a half-million sedans and minivans in the United States were involved in this week's recall to fix brake fluid leaks. The action, announced earlier, involved the same issue that led Toyota to recall 1.5 million vehicles. Honda said the recall affects 471,820 2005-2007 model year Acura RL sedans and Honda Odyssey minivans from the 2005 to early 2007 model year. The company said there have been no injuries or accidents tied to the problem. The Japanese automaker told the government that certain types of brake fluid could affect the seal on the brake's master cylinder and lead to a leak. If the leaks are left unattended, they could cause a spongy feeling in the brake pedal and adversely affect brake performance. Honda said owners will be notified within the next two months and vehicles will be repaired free.

OBAMA - WEEKLY ADDRESS

President Barack Obama says consumers would lose if Republicans regain power in Congress and try to roll back his hard-won Wall Street overhaul. He says the GOP's promised repeal of the law would mean the return of a financial system whose near-collapse led to the worst recession since the Depression. "Without sound oversight and commonsense protections for consumers, the whole economy is put in jeopardy," Obama said Saturday in his weekly radio and Internet address. "That doesn't serve Main Street. That doesn't serve Wall Street. That doesn't serve anyone." The law passed despite nearly unanimous Republican opposition. It sought to rein in a financial system that had sped ahead of outdated rules, allowing banks, traders and others to take increased risks.

NATURALIZATION CERTIFICATE
LUIS MEGID- SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA
PKG 2:00

Immigration officials, in an effort to deter fraud, will unveil today a new naturalization certificate for people who become U.S. citizens. The new certificates, used to obtain passports and other legal documents, come after U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) unveiled a new green card - the ID card for immigrants with permanent residency status - this year that had improved security features to prevent forgery and tampering. "They are going to be very significant" technical changes, says USCIS Director Alejandro Mayorkas, who is scheduled to present the new certificates at a naturalization ceremony in Baltimore. Mayorkas said his office doesn't track incidents of fraud for immigration documents, but the officials felt the improvements were necessary because the green cards hadn't been updated since 1998 and the last update of the naturalization certificates, in 2003, didn't add any security features. The old certificates were filled in manually and the person's photograph was just attached to it. The new computerized certificates will have all that information embedded in the document and also will have ink patterns that are harder to duplicate. The new green cards have more security features, including a personalized holographic image, a laser-engraved fingerprint of the person and improved identification technology.

PKG 2:21

A study in the medical journal, Pediatrics, reported on Monday that 10 percent of the sexually active students in New York City schools had at least one homosexual partner and that adolescents who had such homosexual relations reported a higher-than-average amount of dating violence. The study also stated that these students had more "forced sex," which would be rape in most cases. And the study reported that these students engaged in more "high risk" sexual behavior, which suggests unprotected sex with partners who may have AIDS or some similar grim disease. One-third of those who had been involved in homosexual relations related that they were heterosexual themselves. The study itself was based upon 17,220 public health surveys. The particular surveys were from 2005 and 2007, and the Youth Risk Behavior Study is conducted by the New York City Department of Health every two years. Out of the students who participated in the study, 7,261 reported having had sexual intercourse. Among males, 93.1 percent reported sexual relations with only females; 3.2 percent reported only homosexual relations; and 3.7 percent reported heterosexual and homosexual relations. Females who had sexual relations reported that 88.1 percent had been only with males; 3.2 percent had been only homosexual; and 8.7 percent reported both heterosexual and homosexuals relations. Among sexually active teenagers, 9.3 percent reported only one sexual partner.

The Department of Education is sending a warning to schools, colleges and universities nationwide in response to several high-profile cases of bullying. In letters going out today, the agency tells schools they could be violating federal anti-discrimination laws if they tolerate or fail to adequately address ethnic, sexual or gender-based harassment. Among some of the recent high-profile cases are the suicides of an 18-year-old Rutgers University student and a 15-year-old Massachusetts girl.

IS THE ECONOMY STUPID
LUIS MEGID / SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA
PKG 2:27

The last read on the economy before the midterm elections found Americans are spending a little more but not nearly enough to bring down high unemployment - one final bit of bad news for Democrats. The economy expanded at a 2 percent pace from July to September, the Commerce Department . It marked a slight improvement from the scant 1.7 percent growth rate in the previous quarter. But to keep up with population growth and actually bring down unemployment, the economy must grow much faster. Economists figure it takes growth at a rate of about 5 percent for a full year to lower the jobless rate by a percentage point. Democrats risk losing control of the House and perhaps the Senate on Tuesday at a time when nearly 15 million Americans are out of work and the jobless rate is 9.6 percent.

ILLEGAL IMMIGRATION BACKLASH DIVIDES LATINOS

JAIME GARCIA,/ LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

Hispanics are increasingly concerned about a backlash against them, even as they are split over the effects of illegal immigration on the country. Their anxiety comes as illegal immigration and border security are playing major roles in election campaigns nationwide. More than 60 percent of Latinos say discrimination against Hispanics is a "major problem," up from 54 percent who said the same in 2007, according to a report to be released Thursday by the nonpartisan Pew Hispanic Center. Three years ago, Hispanics were most likely to cite language skills as the biggest reason for discrimination. Now, more than a third believe immigration is the biggest factor. That said, the number of Latinos who reported they, their family or close friends have experienced discrimination remained unchanged from last year and actually dropped from 2007.

SEATS AT STAKE CONGRESS
LOURDES MELUZA/ WASHINGTON, DC
PKG 2:16

In the run-up to November, everybody is wondering whether Republicans can retake the House of Representatives this year. They should really be wondering whether the GOP can take back the Indiana House of Representatives and the New York state Senate. U.S. House races will determine who controls Congress until 2012, but state-level races for legislature and governor this fall could determine who controls Congress through 2022. Next year, states will redraw their legislative and congressional district lines based on the results of the U.S. census. And in most states, the party in power gets to draw the map to its own advantage. The last time this happened, in the 2000 election, Republicans fared poorly. After George W. Bush lost the national popular vote for president, the party was left with complete control of the redistricting process in states that accounted for only 98 House seats. Democrats had total control over creating 120 new districts. Of the remaining 217 districts, seven are in states with just one House seat; 173 were drawn under split-party power; and 37 were drawn by nonpartisan commissions under state law.

WHITMAN HOUSEKEEPER

JAIME GARCIA/ LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

PKG 2:01

Reporting from Salinas, Stockton and Sacramento - Republican gubernatorial nominee Meg Whitman has reignited a controversy that roiled her campaign for weeks, saying the undocumented housekeeper she employed for nine years should be deported. The comment, her toughest yet on the matter, came in an interview with Fox News Greta Van Susteren, who asked Whitman on Wednesday whether the former housekeeper, Nicandra Diaz Santillan, should be deported. "Well, the answer is: It breaks my heart, but she should be deported, because she forged documents and she lied about her immigration status," Whitman said. She reiterated her argument that Diaz Santillan was used as a pawn in a political stunt but added: "The law is the law, and we live in the rule of law. It's important." Whitman and her campaign aides had fought hard to turn the page on the scandal when it erupted in September. The candidate has said that both she and a hiring agency relied on documents that turned out to be false, and she fired Diaz Santillan when the housekeeper disclosed her immigration status last year. On Thursday, Whitman tried to step back from her remarks, saying they didn't represent a change in position.

PKG 1:07

Yemeni police arrested a woman on suspicion of mailing a pair of bombs powerful enough to take down airplanes, officials said Saturday as details emerged about a terrorist plot aimed at the U.S. that exploited security gaps in the worldwide shipping system. Investigators were hunting Yemen for more suspects tied to al-Qaida and several U.S. officials identified the terrorist group's top explosives expert in Yemen as the most likely bombmaker. The explosives, addressed to Chicago-area synagogues, were pulled off airplanes in England and the United Arab Emirates early Friday morning, touching off a tense search for other devices. It still wasn't clear whether the bombs, which officials said were wired to cell phones, timers and power supplies, could have been detonated remotely while the planes were in the air, or when the packages were halfway around the world in the U.S. But the fact that they made it onto airplanes showed that nearly a decade since the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks, terrorists continue to probe and find security vulnerabilities.

IMPORTANCE OF HISPANIC IN THE ELECTIONS

JAIME GARCÍA/ LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

This election season, Spanish-language networks are playing an important role as many are hosting many debates with major candidates and seeing their political coverage received by mainstream media, and such a point should not be ignored or forgotten. Recent examples of Loretta Sanchez and Meg Whitman were made after they each appeared on the Spanish-language Univision Network. In an interview with anchor Jorge Ramos, U.S. Representative Loretta Sanchez told viewers that her Republican opponent Van Tran was anti-immigrant and anti-Hispanic. After the comments were picked up by a blogger, posted on YouTube, and seen by Republican Party leaders, the influence and importance of Hispanic media could no longer be overlooked. California's Republican gubernatorial candidate Meg Whitman was attempting to attract Hispanic voters during her Univision sponsored debate with Jerry Brown, but when she was put on the defensive due to accusations she should have known her long-time housekeeper was unlawfully in the U.S., the exchange went viral.

There has been an accusation that 65% of 5000 voter registration forms, submitted by Mi Familia Vota and One Vote Arizona, in Yuma County on the last day of filling are invalid due to the registrant not being a citizen, wrong/invalid address, false signature, etc. I also understand that these 2 groups have signed up 20,000 states wide and they have requested that 45,000 be put on the permanent early ballot. If 65% of these last minute registration forms in Yuma are invalid, which may be more as they are still checking the rest, then what is the percentages of invalid in Maricopa, Pima and other counties. This is a very serious accusation that needs to be investigated to the fullest extent of the law. If this accusation is true then the perpetrators of this hideous crime against America citizens should be prosecuted to full extent of the law by Arizona Courts and not the federal courts as they do nothing on voter fraud and voter intimidation. All participants should be locked up and the key thrown away. This is an attack against sovereignty of this state and our freedoms for a socialist agenda.
